

Imagine this story.

God says I'm going to drop you down on this place called earth, now when I do that, you'll need something (a vehicle) to maneuver around on this earth. Let's call it a body, now you'll also need to learn how to operate that body and there will be other bodies on this earth to assist in that. You will also at the same time have the power of me connected to you (Thoughts) within this body, you will be able access this at any time. That sounds great God, I'm excited for this new experience. God said, beware of the body that you're put into, because it will want to take over and be in control. But God I am very powerful! How can this happen? This body has thinking (brain), and this thinking brain is also powerful, it will be loaded with information from others on the earth, this data comes from what the others teach you in this body and is very powerful, it will be such that you will feel powerless. that can't be I am very powerful? This thinking brain will be trained to be in control from the other teachings. You must teach the brain to do the things you wish not what others have taught you. Then the two powers will be one for an exciting existence on earth.
